

MARGARET RIVER REPORT

PART I

Our panel relished the opportunity of tasting 112 Margaret River chardonnays, cabernet sauvignons and cabernet blends. Not only were we keen to try some of the best wines that the key Western Australian wine region had to offer, we looked forward to seeing how a few of the “sacred cows”, rarely tasted blind in other forums, fared.

Here’s Part 1. Part 2, covering cabernet blends together with more cabernets and chardonnays, will follow shortly.

The palate has a fine, chalky texture and that, combined with powerful varietal flavour and freshening acidity, makes it a special chardonnay. (Yet to be released. The 2013 is $65.00) ★★★★★
